YOUTH SUNDAY RECAP

If you were present for Youth Sunday worship on May 13, you were undoubtedly deeply moved by the sermons, music and leadership of our high school youth. They were amazing witnesses of God's love. We thank these seniors for their words. Special thanks to Elizabeth Ciccolini, Youth Director for her leadership of the youth.

Rev. Keckler

SERMON ONE BY MACKENZIE BARNES

When I heard that the theme for this year's Youth Sunday was "Our Story" I realized how relevant it was. The dictionary states that a story is the telling of an event or the report of an event considered newsworthy. Though not many of our PYF events can be considered newsworthy, there are many experiences that we have shared that make for a good story.

Our youth group is very fortunate; we are able to do many activities that others do not have the opportunity to experience. We are able to bond and have fun by playing capture the flag, having cupcake wars and going on ski trips, but we also have the opportunity to help those in need through activities such as preparing new mother kits and packing sack lunches. I love all of these activities but I would have to say my favorite is the lock-in. Not many people can say that they have been in church past midnight. During the lock-in we are all able to experience the church in a way that not many do. One of my favorite PYF stories is about one of these lock-in nights. After spending hours of running around the church, snacking and playing games we made our way to the Sanctuary. We were all handed candles in the Narthex and one by one made our way to the altar. Slowly we gathered around the altar creating a circle. While I was still standing in the same Sanctuary where I have been many times, the atmosphere was completely different. Instead of the bright cheery space I am used to, it was dark and calm, the only light coming from our candles. Here I was able to clear my head and just think about my faith. I contemplated my beliefs, my connection to God and how those beliefs can be the basis for decision making.

After experiencing the Sanctuary in a new light, we all made our way down to the kitchen for our midnight snack. We gathered around the left over Jimmy John Sandwiches and Portillo's salad and ate together. A feeling of community had rushed over me. The people sitting around me are some of the closest friends I have made through out my high school years. I would not have met many of these kids that I feel so close to if I had not come to PYF. I thought to myself how amazing PYF is. It has given me the opportunity to explore my faith as well as the fellowship of peers.

In preparing for this sermon for today's Youth Sunday, I also looked up the word OUR in the dictionary for inspiration. When I saw that the official definition for OUR is "belonging to", it confirmed my appreciation for today's theme of "our story". For a common thread running through all of our shared PYF stories is a sense of belonging.

SUMMER WORSHIP

Summer worship time will move to 9:30 a.m. and will begin on Sunday, May 27 through Labor Day, September 2

For me, and probably all the other seniors that have participated in PYF, this sense of belonging and these wonderful stories will be cherished memories that we will carry with us as we start our next chapter in life.

SERMON TWO VICTORIA POWERS

My first Sunday afternoon walking into the Pilgrim Youth Fellowship room, I was filled with apprehension and nervousness. I had been invited to join PYF by a youth group member, and while I was at first hesitant, I now realize how invaluable my experience as a member has been.

I became a part of the PYF family a little over a year ago. For many, a year is not enough time to develop close friendships, but I quickly learned that PYF was not like any other, ordinary environment. My first Sunday here we played dodge ball; not your typical youth group activity, but then again this youth group isn't like many others. Immediately, I felt like I fit right in – everyone laughing, shouting, throwing balls at each other, running around, it was great. I continued to talk to my close friends already in PYF for the first few weeks, texting each one of them to make sure they were going to the meetings, not really branching out to the other members. But after those first few weeks, I began to talk to and interact with the other members. As the year continued I continued to branch out and soon I didn't need to send out the weekly Sunday texts to make sure my friends were going to meetings that week. I didn't need to feel shy or nervous; and that's exactly what kept me coming back to PYF week after week. The overwhelming sense of warmth and community this church family shared each week was more than enough to make me blissfully come to each Sunday meeting. Perhaps I had been too self-conscious at the very beginning of my journey to realize that that warmth and welcoming had been there all along. The church members, kids and adults alike, welcomed me into their community with open arms and open hearts.

That is why I say the GCC youth group is not like many others; the group's overwhelming welcome-ness is hard to come by and God's message of acceptance and love is truly carried out through this church group. The PYF group welcomed me into their family and offered a safe environment, they accepted me unconditionally for who I was. I believe that through my participation in PYF I have made some life-long friends and it has illuminated, for me, the power of God's love. And while although I have only been a member of the GCC family for a little over a year, I can see how greatly it has impacted my life and has shown me the power of community and acceptance – there is no judgment there, no hate, and no loneliness.

And while I rely on the PYF group for many things - to hear my prayers, to help me when I struggle, to be there as my friend - the group only asks of me one thing – to be myself.

SERMON THREE BY TAYLOR BROWN

Jesus commanded us to love one another as he loved us. For me the greatest manifestation of this teaching is acceptance and tolerance. Lucky for me, I have found a living and breathing example of these teachings, the community here at GCC. I never realized just how much this church and community meant to me until last summer.

It is somewhat taboo to start a conversation with strangers by asking, what do you think about the afterlife, but that's exactly how last years PYF mission trip went for me. Painting for six hours a day in the same room with people makes religious questions such as this more acceptable. Few topics push the limits of comprehensibility like religion. It serves to answer the most intellectually strenuous questions, questions with no definitive answers and little data to support any particular conclusion. This crowded little room, with tar covered walls, and a soiled carpet somehow bred religious discussion.

Our site director happened to be from a conservative Evangelical church. I was eager to hear theology so different from my own, so I started asking questions. It was somewhat reckless, but my curiosity got the best of me. I asked about creation, salvation, and the literal accuracy of the Bible, all the while trying to keep an open mind. Some of what he said confused me and some of what he said offended me, but I kept going because I wanted to understand how his beliefs shaped his world view. He then asked me many of the same questions. I explained that the United Church of Christ is founded on the belief that religion is very personal, requiring a lot of interpretation, so there can be no ultimate truth. To that my site director scoffed, "your church should not even exist."

Here I was, a seventeen-year-old matched against a young man in seminary who could quote scripture like it was fact. I had never considered myself exceptionally religious but this man was attacking my faith and I was offended. Although I didn't agree with his beliefs, I never sought to belittle or invalidate them, I just accepted them as another interpretation of the same scripture. I couldn't understand why I could accept and tolerate his beliefs, but he completely rejected mine.

Then I realized, we hadn't grown up in the same faith community. I grew up knowing no matter who I was or where I was on life's journey, my church would accept me. He was taught to look at faith in a more black and white way with right and wrong answers.

He wrote me a note on the final day of our mission trip that I still have. It suggested I take time to look objectively at questions of faith, and if I did, I would see that my beliefs are wrong. Every time I read the note, I have to smile, because I know that even if I did decide he was right, my church would still love and accept me.

SERMON FOUR BRADLEY BERG

Seven years ago I was up at this stage performing "Joseph And The Amazing Technicolor Dream Coat" with the children's choir. I was only 9 years old and I was cast as one of the two jail guards. Who was I guarding? Joseph, and who played him? Jim Ryan. Ya that's what I thought, "I'm the guard?" Now how am I supposed to look like a guard over a man two and half times my size. Well it worked out and there are still videos and pictures to prove it. He did get out by the way.

During my years of choir I was led by adults and older choir members. The following year Jim became assistant director of the Children's Choir musical, where he displayed the traits of a great leader, something I hoped to pursue at church.

Upon entering High School I became active with the church's puppet team, where we would perform puppet shows to 1st through 5th grades, telling stories from the Bible with the characters, Nathaniel Narrator, Pop-up Polly and most importantly Scruddy. This group opened my first leadership opportunity where others depended on me to say my lines correctly, be in the right location, and arrive each week. However, it wasn't until I attended my first Pilgrim Youth Fellowship (PYF as it is commonly known), that I knew the open community of high schoolers and wonderful adults would be the perfect atmosphere to build my leadership abilities. I have met new friends and learned more about the old. The beginning of my search into learning about others began in 8th grade. At the 8th grade confirmation retreat all of the kids wrote on a rock, a quality trait that they would like to hold onto. After scribbling our trait we chucked them into the dark forest in front of us to be picked up by God. After throwing, I and another Confirmand wanted to head into the forest in the morning and find those rocks. Whether it was to see others traits or to see who threw theirs the farthest I still don't know; however, we never went back to retrieve those stones. But through PYF meetings and events I have been searching for others traits ever since.

One great PYF event was during the fall retreat when the high schoolers went up early to Tower Hill Church Camp and the next day the Confirmands arrived with their high energy, ready to play and pray. The two nights that we were at camp Tower Hill we had a bonfire. Now I had always believed that bonfire was really bond b-o-n-d fire; however, that was a great name for what the experience was like those nights. We had 17 teens the first night and over 40 kids and adults the second night and you can be sure that we bonded around that fire. During that trip I also had the ability to lead new group games, which helped bring the group closer together.

This church and more importantly PYF has opened new doors as I have had the ability to experience different communities, kids, and adults through various programs and events. The most memorable events include; playing capture the flag, 4- square, hockey, dodge ball, curses and much more. This year I also had the chance to assist in designing the changes to the PYF room. Using Google sketch-up, a program I am sure to use in college, I was able to give the kids and adults a 3D view of what the PYF room could look like.

And now to my fellow seniors and PYF members, Jeremiah 29:11 says "For I know the plans I have for you, declares the LORD, plans for welfare and not for evil, to give you a future and a hope." Let us all keep this in mind as each senior travels on through college and life, and each high schooler savors their last moments of child hood. As I continue my education at the University of Illinois studying Architecture, I hope to live in a leadership-living community. I know the skills and opportunities that I have gained from being an active member of this congregation and the wonderful youth group has set me on a great path of leadership and success in life.

SERMON FIVE
LINDSAY LYHUS

PYF loves through our service to others. Whether it's a Sunday afternoon or a week long adventure out in Arkansas, West Virginia, or Minnesota, the people I've met through PYF stand out in their unique capacity to love others. That passion to serve connects people unlike anything else I've experienced. Maybe it's just a matter of proximity-- it's hard not to learn anything about a person you've stood next to for 5 hours painting a shed in blazing heat. But I think it's more than that. When you work together towards a goal, and you see the impact you have on the people that need your help, that sticks with you. You're proud. And that makes a difference in the way you see the world.

Faith. It's not only an understanding of God, it's a lesson in compassion that every one can learn. The power of kindness and respect is sometimes undervalued in our society-- we throw money at problems that could be solved with just a little time and an attempt to understand the real issue. That's why the mission trips I've been on as a part of this church have made such an impact on me. We don't just do the job, pack up, and leave; we meet the families, help in whatever ways we can, and work with them to find more opportunities to help themselves. Of course, we don't limit ourselves to one week in the entire year. Service projects are some of the most fun activities we do at PYF, from packing birthday bags for kids who can't afford party supplies to making blankets and bringing food to the Night Ministry. Getting involved and seeing how easy it is to help with whatever time and services you can offer made it clear to me that everyone's help is needed and appreciated. Little contributions add up; and being a part of the difference our church makes has been a fantastic experience.

And I love how deeply that idea of service resonates with the people in PYF. Working together towards a goal has bonded us in a way I can't describe, but I know I've made some of my greatest friends here, people I know I can rely on and who I can really trust. The experiences we've had while cooped up in vans for ten hours have made us like family-- you name it, we've discussed it (or giggled about it far from Elizabeth's super-sonic ears). PYF has given us a really special gift, because we can laugh and have so much fun, but you know there's someone there to listen and lend a hand if you need a serious talk.

It's an incredible community, one that I am so proud and privileged to be a part of. There's a bond unlike anything I expected could come from a group of such different people, and really didn't expect much-- I used to be dragged here every Sunday against my will. But the mission trips and the people I've met changed all that. Leaving this group of friends will be unbelievably difficult. I know that the effect of PYF will continue to impact others and ourselves, and I could not be more grateful that I was a part of this family. We are all so lucky.

COMMON GROUND AT GCC FRIDAY, MAY 25

"Why Ayn Rand Ignites the Right"

Presented by Jim Kenney

"It is the morality of altruism that undercut America and is now destroying her." These are the words of Ayn Rand, drawn from "For the New Intellectual", dedicated to the exaltation of selfishness and to the body of thought she called objectivism". But how did this strange (and enthusiastically godless) Russian emigre become the patron intellectual of so many on America's far right? In this session, we'll sketch the life of Rand, lay out the essential structure of objectivist thought, and discuss her magnum opus, the novel "Atlas Shrugged." Why has that turgid work begun to fly off bookstore shelves, after a long dormancy?

WEIGHT TRAINING FOR ALL LEVELS

Join us for this unique exercise class that incorporates weights in achieving your fitness goal. This class is for all levels-- those who have never lifted a weight, to those who are very comfortable using them. (3-5 lb. weights) All ages are encouraged to attend. We are fortunate to have Helen White, Certified Personal Trainer who will work with your individual needs. Helen facilitates classes at various north shore locations. We meet on Thursdays from 11:00 -11:45 a.m. in the Mayflower Room. These are drop in classes so you may come every Thursday or whenever you can. Donation is $10.00 per class.

YOGA CLASSES

Need to improve your balance, strength and flexibility and feel good about yourself? Join us for basic yoga on Thursdays from 9-10 am in the Narthex.

Instructor Kelly Golding, RYT-200 facilitates these classes which benefit your body, mind and spirit. Donation is $10.00 per class. As these are drop in classes, come when it is convenient for you.

Try these classes --you'll be glad you did!

ADULT EDUCATION

Wednesday, May 23, 7:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m.

Rev. Dr. Doug Busby, The Living Matrix.

Last fall Adult Ed explored several methodologies of spiritual healing. GCC Transitional Senior Minister Doug Busby moderates the film, "The Living Matrix," which explores the miraculous scientific and spiritual connection between the human energy field and healing.

Sunday morning Adult Ed programs will resume next fall.

Your Adult Ed Board.

LOOKING FOR LECTORS

Would you like to celebrate your faith in a new way? The Service and Sacraments Board is looking for lectors to do Scripture readings during the worship service. If you are interested please contact Valerie Rosenberg at valerie381@msn.com or (847)729-4943. Thank you!

EXPERIENCE HEALING TOUCH

Healing Touch is used on cardiac, cancer, and surgical patients at many hospitals and clinics throughout the United States. Healing Touch techniques initiate the body's relaxation response enabling your body to heal. Healing Touch is also a great way to maintain balance and harmony for better health. Learn what physicians are saying about Healing Touch by viewing a 9 minute video on YouTube.

Once again, GCC member Susan Johnson, Certified Healing Touch Practitioner, will offer one hour sessions to GCC members on Thursday, May 31 and Thursday, June 14 from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. in the GCC chapel. To schedule your appointment, email Susan at s.h.johnson@comcast.net or call (847) 804-6363. There is no fee for these sessions, but you may make a donation to the church.

PYF YOUTH STOCK SALE

Now is the time to purchase stock from our high school youth as they prepare for their summer mission trip to Minnesota. Stocks are $10 a share and provide financial support for the trip as well as for scholarships. Forms are available in the church office. Thanks!

THANK YOU TO OUR YOUTH VOLUNTEERS!

GCC is truly the envy of many church youth programs. Volunteers are key to the success of these programs and at GCC we are fortunate to have a group of dedicated adults who give countless time and a tremendous amount of energy to our middle and high school students.

On Youth Sunday, we were given a chance to acknowledge these individuals. Our confirmation teachers spend each Sunday for two years with their students preparing them for their 8th grade confirmation. Youth Sponsors take on a variety of commitments. They may join the PYF students on Sundays from 4 to 6 p.m. for various activities, attend weekend retreats or week-long mission trips, as well as pick up a stick to participate in a hockey game in our gym.

Please join the Youth and Confirmation Board in giving a heartfelt thank you to the following volunteers:

Confirmation Teachers:

Carolyn Brown - 7th grade
Kerry Karth - 7th grade
Lisa Leger - 8th grade
Mike McFaul - 8th grade
Bob McGee - 7th grade
Gill Mergl - 7th grade
Brad Smith - 7th grade

Youth Sponsors:

Leanne Drennan
Christine Foley
Bob McGee
Mike McGuire
Jim Mergl
Michele Monteith

ATTENTION:

Sunday School Teachers, Children's Board members, parents of Sunday school students, and all adults supportive of GCC's children's ministry

You are cordially invited to bowl, snack, and meet others at Pinstripes at 1150 Willow in Northbrook on Thursday, May 31 from 6:30 - 8:30 p.m. Please RSVP to Children's Board member Laura McNeela at lauramcneela@rocketmail.com. I look forward to seeing you!

SUNDAY SCHOOL NEWS

It is with appreciation and special thanks to many that we end the 2011-2012 Sunday school year, especially teachers:
